

Q:

What help is available to support new teachers?

You may be wondering... When you're a new teacher, will there be mentors to help you? Will you receive ongoing teacher training even after you get your credentials? The good news is -- YES!

As a new teacher, you will enroll in a teacher induction program, which is often paid for by the school district, and enables you to clear your credential. Learning opportunities include:

A:

- Collaboration with on-site mentors who have expertise in coaching your subject area
- Professional development featuring current educational research
- Networking with your peers
- Development of a professional action plan, which includes short and long-term goals
- Improved communication with families and community members
- Increased knowledge about educational and social services available to help students and families

Learn More!

Browse the TEACH California website to learn more about teaching in California!

www.teachcalifornia.org